Property Buying Advisory Firm Allen Wargent Goes Down Under

Residential property buying advisor AllenWargent has opened a new office in Sydney, offering property buying services and advice to clients looking to purchase in Australia's largest property market.

The opening of the Sydney office follows the opening of the London office earlier in 2013, offering buyer only services to clients in the London residential property market.

Former real estate portfolio manager Paddy Allen and best selling finance author Pete Wargent established AllenWargent in 2013 to provide quality, transparent and regulated buyer only advice and representation.

AllenWargent is a residential property advisory firm with offices in London & Sydney, providing property acquisition, owner representation & portfolio management services to private clients and real estate investment funds. The directors draw on extensive experience in real estate transactions and finance across Europe and Australasia.

AllenWargent is one of a small number of buying only firms that are regulated by the RICS (Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors) in the UK and this reinforces the knowledge based and professional approach to all clients.

Pete Wargent, Director of the Sydney office:

"After a successful 2013 in London, the timing was ideal for the opening of AllenWargent's Sydney office. Australia's property markets are thriving and the population is expanding at a great pace. As a firm we will continue to offer an unparalleled and bespoke service to our clients through 2014 and beyond."

Paddy Allen, Director of the London office:

"There is a continued to need to offer high quality buying advice across the UK and Australian property markets. The opening of the AllenWargent Sydney office signals our intent to take a global approach to local markets. We recognise that both London and Sydney have highly diverse international stakeholders, yet require local knowledge to achieve success. Therefore by having a deep understanding of our clients needs and our markets we can deliver a market leading service, backed up by knowledge and professional regulation."
